Company

Founded in 1974, The Lobster Place was among the first to bring live lobster from the docks of Maine to the New York City restaurant trade. Since then, the company has expanded, now serving a full line of fresh, live, and frozen seafood to hundreds of commercial kitchens throughout New York and the tri-state area. The company operates its own restaurants - Cull and Pistol Oyster Bar - and a retail seafood hall - Lobster Place Seafood Market - in the center of Chelsea Market.

“Seasoftware is so easy to use. My warehouse personnel quickly adopted the use of our computerized packing stations and our processing capacity grew overnight without adding a single employee.”

Ian MacGregor, President, Lobster Place

Challenge:

The Lobster Place wanted to improve the efficiency and accuracy of their production and packing operations. They selected Seasoft to provide the following capabilities:

Production Packing Stations

Bar code label printers, wash-down PCs, and scales improve production efficiency

Improved Costing & Yielding

Real-time product costing and production yields help manage margins

Centralized Data Repository

Single entry of customer information reduces errors

Solution:

Seasoft Enterprise Resource Planning (ERP) software provides a state-of-the-art seafood processing and packing solution. As sales orders are entered, packers view species and weights to be cut or packed on their workstation. Packing weights are captured from scales and recorded on the open work order, allowing for more accurate and efficient recording of production yields. The software updates quantities shipped for each customer invoice and back-office staff need only click a button to generate the invoice.

Results:

- 30% increase in overall efficiency
- More accurate yields and real-time costing to manage profitability
- Improved production and packing speed and accuracy

“We can access cost information at any time, so we always know our precise margins. We’re very excited to be able to continue to work with Seasoft and the dedicated professionals who support us.”

Ian MacGregor, President, The Lobster Place
